

ALBANY PROMUSICA

Conductor and pianist Noah Palmer is one of the Capital Region's most in demand collaborators. He is Assistant Director and Accompanist for Albany Pro Musica, the Capital Region's leading choral ensemble, and Assistant Conductor for the Broad St Chorale and Orchestra in Kinderhook, NY. As a choral conductor he has led, among other groups, the Northern Berkshire Chorale, the Sage Singers, and the Vermont Symphony Orchestra Chorus. Highlights of his tenure with the Northern Berkshire Chorale included performances of the Faure Requiem and Mozart's Vespers. As a pianist, Noah has accompanied many of the Capital Region's finest singers, including Vedrana Kalas, Sylvia Stoner, Irina Petrik, and Kevin Kees.

In 2016, Palmer was an Apprentice Coach and Chorus Master with the Merola Opera Program, the San Francisco Opera's prestigious young artist program. He spent two seasons on the music staff of the Midwestern Institute of Opera in Illinois, where he made his debut conducting Ravel's l'Enfant et les Sortilèges. He has also worked with regional opera companies including Sarasota Opera, assisting productions of Verdi's Il Trovatore and Jerusalem, as well as Opera North, where he spent two seasons as the pianist for educational outreach tours, following a Summer with the company's prestigious young artist program.
